

14 Hills | Roman Klis Office | The Toybox

Modular Lighting Guide | German Design Report | Light + Building Preview | Bar Lighting | Capsule Collection

“As initially planned, the lighting elements chosen enhance the vivid colourful interior concept by highlighting the surfaces and the plants. To accentuate the coloured surfaces, all luminaires should emit a uniform light with very good colour rendering,” expands Möbs. “To avoid competition between lighting and the interior, a small number of decorative luminaires were carefully placed. The bamboo fixtures underline the overall concept, and the seven large apartment 91 custom-made lanterns in coloured textiles in the staff restaurant, situated in a glass annex, makes the space visible from a distance. The pendant LED-lamps give additional light on the tables.”

The end result of the space directly portrays the positive mood that follows Roman Klis. It is not only a workspace that triggers an immediate buzz among clients and employees alike, but above all, it is a dynamic basis for effective, agile working. Ultimately, the performance of the employees was considerably enhanced.

ifgroup.org

www.lichtplanung.com

Design Details

Roman Klis, Herrenberg, Germany
 Interior Design: Ippolito Fleitz Group
 Lighting Design: pfarré lighting design
 Lighting Specification: Elektro Weippert
 Consultant: Porsche Consultancy, Germany
 Lighting Specified: apartment 91 custom fabric with colour gradient lampshade; Custom pendant lighting element with task lighting and indirect lighting for plants; Estiluz Volta bow-shaped pendant; Moooi Emperor woven bamboo pendant; Philips LED Gold pendant bulbs; Sattler ring luminaire; SLV Medo flat round pendant

The newly refurbished Roman Klis office in Herrenberg, Germany, has received a full make-over that incorporates a huge amount of natural greenery to improve employee wellbeing. A lot of research was put into behavioural science studies to determine the ideal size of zones for communicating and working, as well as the colours, textures and lighting needed for the perfect environment that supports staff and reflects the brand's personality.